

My name is Zuri...

I'm the new baby elephant and live at Hogle Zoo, a non-profit organization. In order to continue creating wonderful living spaces and to feed and care for me and my friends here, we need your help!

Did you know?

- Over 60,000, Utah school kids visited the zoo for FREE in 2009.
- Hogle Zoo provides exemplary care for over 830 animals, 365 days a year.
- Meat for the big cats, hay for the elephants, fresh produce for the monkeys, veterinary care and ground upkeep - all of these things combined cost about $30,000 a day, every day of the year!

Utah's Hogle Zoo is dedicated to nurturing respect and appreciation for the natural world; we are a leader in environmental conservation and education. Hogle Zoo is one of the ten most visited attractions in Utah; over one-million guests experienced the wonder of the animal kingdom during 2009.

Zoo Rendezvous is the Zoo's annual fundraiser. Proceeds go toward animal care and capital improvements for me and my friends here. This year we are so excited to present the Wasatch Front's very first "Green Gala," highlighting not only what the Zoo does to help the earth, but also the projects that help animals like me in the wild.

Won't you help?

By contributing to the Zoo Rendezvous Silent Auction, your support will guarantee success for 2010. We ask for your help by making a tax-deductible donation of an auction item or service. We'll call to arrange a time to "swagger by" and pick up your gift.

The Zoo is such a great place to spend a day with your family. Please contribute so we can continue to educate and entertain your kids when they visit!

My friends and I here at Hogle Zoo appreciate your support and hope to see you at the 2010 Zoo Rendezvous!

Baby Elephant, Zuri